Telekinetic - Indie Horror: The concept is simple: a head bumped, and a lot of people died. But instead of falling into the void, this head endows itself with a very unusual gift - telekinesis. This allows it to pick up and throw anything, as well as use other physical abilities: attract objects, repelling. Not only that, but the telekinetic heads are replaced by mechanical (the right hand is just a plastic replica). As a result, your life takes a dangerous turn. You start working in strange places, and carrying various objects. You even go to the investigation of paranormal phenomena. To do this, you need to solve puzzles and find clues. Vengeance: Telekinetic. In addition to your telekinetic head, you are also gifted in a variety of other talents, which will become more useful in the course of your adventures. After all, the criminal, who tried to kill you, is waiting for your return. The track of events becomes more and more detailed, with every new place you visit - will be a difficult task to stop the danger. Game Story: Telekinetic Telekinetic - you know, where you suffer from mechanical head. But the first thing you experience in this game is not so mundane. You come to your senses and you realize that the place where you are is a very large, strange home, with strange objects. At the same time, your head, instead of its natural counterpart, is replaced by a plastic replica. You have lost a lot of blood and you sense a strong smell. You lift yourself up, and find that people around you have been murdered. Your powers don't work in this place, and you even don't know if they have deliberately disabled them. There is a room with two metal bars, where you hear sounds, as if something is trapped. There is blood everywhere, and the place is silent and gloomy. So, finally, everything begins to go down. And then it starts. At first, it seems to you that time is going too slowly, but then you are unable to recall a day, for you, nothing goes as it should. You are trying to find the source of these strange events and finding ways to stop the killer. But, all of this doesn't succeed, you are returned to a state of mind, you cannot understand where this happened and what happened that. But at some point, you start to do things, you are connected with objects, you

5 minute read By JT Trammell and Jim Mastri As we all learn through experience, you never get back what you once lost. Instead you go to areas of the world and help to repair what's left. It's been amazing to help at sites like Palmyra, Monterrey, Chaco Canyon, and the rest. But the one site that has always held a special place in our hearts and minds is the one on top of Eiffel Tower-esque volcano Pumaloy in The Bahamas. The ruins, you see, are not the best preserved ruins in the world, but they are mysterious and beautiful. They're also unfortunately in a very beautiful place for looters. So, despite no cameras being allowed in the island chain, we still wanted to have a go at doing a ruin hunt. So for the next six weeks, we will be going to The Bahamas and really for the first time, for about two solid weeks- and the other four at least, are being fully lead by Richard Van Allen (click to see all of his stories for the Bahamas), a professional looter and archaeologist who has video-graphed every site in those islands along with a bunch of other archaeology/looting/scrambling personalities. The best description of Palmyran culture is that they were the descendants of Alexander the Great's vast military empire. The large population got from that fertile land, they never became as peaceful as Greece with good constitutions and so went on a kind of civil war pretty bad to one side. They lived in a decadent luxury even in pretty rough times considering it was known as a "great island". Richard's Previous Ruin Hunts He and I also hopped on almost two years ago along with another guy who quit the military to start his own archaeology company (click on his name for his stories) to loot a Tunisian site I think. He traveled for two years, got several hundred hours of video, and definitely should be paid a lot because that project took a lot of time, effort, and video editing and quality work. Seriously, watch our videos from that day: Who better, you ask, to take us through the ruins, than the man who he apparently has researched for ten years as the top champion of archeology in the world? To celebrate the month long shoot, we'll be producing a
