There are also other major differences between Photoshop and Photoshop Elements. New Additions: After great success with their lineup of concept motorcycles, Taiwanese firm TENCELTZ brought their own bikes to the Isle of Man TT Races, and they have produced some pretty spectacular results. The 1000cc TENCELTZ Sportbike takes a firm bite out of World Superbike supremacy by pure brute force, and the 990cc TENCELTZ Sportbike takes it's own bite out of World Superbike supremacy by pure mental dexterity. The TENCELTZ Sportbike will run with the World Championship in the next couple of years, while the TENCELTZ Sport-Superbike will be manufactured in larger numbers in 2020. When the TENCELTZ Racing brand was founded in 2008 by three top-level riders and engineers (with the help of some very lucky TT Twins), they entered the Isle of Man TT Races with a single, purpose-built bike: the TENCELTZ Racing T1. TENCELTZ Racing TT Twins The T1, standing for 'TENCELTZ Racing T1 Urban Trial', has a fair amount in common with the average HTT prototype: a simple design, a 5-speed gearbox, minimal electronics, and steel shaft-drive with adjustable geometry. The small, 6' x 4' workshop accommodates up to three TENCELTZ Racing T1 machines at one time. All three TENCELTZ Racing T1's are 'Personal Works' machines, meaning that each is individually built for each rider, with a unique combination of components and electronics. As a result, each is built to the rider's own specifications: no two TENCELTZ Racing TT Twins are exactly alike.
