FluidSurf - An award-winning browser plug-in which helps users overcome the challenges of Internet Explorer. It's a "must-have" tool that makes Web browsing as easy as surfing. The aim of the game is to make a set of animals which will evolve in such a way that they will acquire each of the skills shown in the screen. For example: In the first stage, our animals only have the "eating" skill (you can find a full list of the skills in the main screen). They eat grass and leaves, but do not have "fight", "run", "fly", "play" and other skills. The time for the game increases, and the animals evolve by acquisition of new skills. For example, each level of the game may require you to collect 50 coins in order to unlock the next level. It is worth noting that the game uses an unusual method of acquisition of skills. In the game, a number of animals in the same category (mammals, reptiles, birds etc.) are duplicated. If you play this game for about five minutes, you will have a good chance of gaining the ability to fly.
